

2023 NSCA WOMEN'S SHOOTING GRANT APPLICATION

The Executive Council and staff of the NSCA consider outreach programs targeted toward women shooters to be a timely and worthwhile initiative. Sporting Clays is a great lifetime sport for all ages and genders, and currently women are under-represented. We recognize that meaningful participation and advocacy of women shooters is a critical component to our growth and long-term success as an organization.

Successful outreach programs that attract, retain, and develop women sporting clays shooters will enhance our association membership, benefit member clubs, and foster family, social and competitive sporting opportunities. We recognize and appreciate the opportunity for substantial growth and development in this demographic.

The goals of the NSCA Women's Shooting Grant Program are threefold: to enhance women's awareness and enjoyment of our sport; to increase female membership within the NSCA; and increase female participation in NSCA registered competitions. The NSCA Marketing Committee and Executive Council will consider thoughtful, well-developed applications from any appropriate organization, program, club, or event seeking support.

Successful grant applications will demonstrate how their organization's efforts and specific programs will help achieve the three goals. Grantees will be required to document and codify program results in a meaningful way and share their findings with the NSCA. These metrics and results will play a critical role in assisting the NSCA in its ongoing outreach efforts to support women shooters.

Please fill out the 2023 NSCA Women's Shooting Grant Application and a separate proposal to include: your organization's structure, mission, objectives, program details with budget assumptions (proposed use of funds) and measurements for success and impact.

Grants will be reviewed by the NSCA Executive Council and Executive Director. If approved, grants will be awarded in amounts from $1000-$5000. Grants funds will be distributed by NSCA annually in the form of reimbursement upon proper submission to NSCA of receipts, documentation and cooperative marketing media, i.e., Photos, videos, and an event/program result summary

Thank you for your efforts to enhance successful outreach programs for women shooters!
